

Acknowledgments

This report is a collaborative project of two independent nonprofit organizations—the Partnership to Cut Hunger and Poverty in Africa (PCHPA) and Resources for the Future (RFF)—and is funded by a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation. Michael R. Taylor is the principal author and Julie A. Howard the co-author.

We gratefully acknowledge the cooperation of many people in the public and private sectors of the United States and Africa who provided information and insight. We especially thank the members of our project Advisory Board: Jim Bond, Ambassador A. Diop, Howard Gobstein, Tom Hobgood, Earl Kellogg, Alexander Ray Love, Peter McPherson, Richard Mkandawire, Cheryl Morden, Mima Nedelcovych, Ambassador A. Panguene, Emmy Simmons, Ambassador E. Sempala, and Roy Stacy.

Nicole Mason, Jody Tick, Michael McWilliams, and Robin Goldman provided extensive and excellent research assistance for this project. Lastly, special thanks to our editors, Patti Miller and Pamela Angulo, for their many contributions to this report.

Disclaimer

The authors retain responsibility for the content of the report.